«Buenos Ayres,(Argentina). The writer says she constantly receives "the most touching testimonies of affection from all classes of society" since her visit to America. Praises the U.S. climate. Would have written, but preparations for the voyage to Buenos Ayres took all her time. Found the sea voyage to South America very tiresome. Was at Rio de Janeiro for two months. Praises the beauty of the Brazilian countryside. Received great honors and ovations from the Brazilian royal family. Gives her itinerary. Asks if Booth has finished his theatre. Says that a man named Paolo Giacometti wants to sell some of his product to Edwin Booth. He will send some of his work to Miss F. [redacted]

Demerara, British Guiana. Before leaving Boston, the writer deposited with J. A. Collins the stereotype plates of his books, Archie Moore and Despotism in America, to be printed and sold by the Mass. Anti-Slavery Society. Collins sold only seventy copies in one year. The writer, however, has 150 copies of Archie Moore, previously printed, which he would like to have distributed among the slaveholding members of Congress. The climate of Demerara suits the writer, although he has been ill several weeks. The writer has sent to Mr. Wheeler a part of his work, Rudiments of the Inductive Science of Man, suggesting that it be handed to the addressee. Discusses his theory of progress and reaction. Has sent the addressee a report on the laboring population of this colony, containing
